

BETI BACHAO – PED LAGAO

Despite so many government programmes against abortion of female foetus, girl child mortality rate are still high because of prejudices & wrong traditions among some people in rural areas. Satya Foundation spreads dual awareness with a focused programme about gender sensitivity & importance of planting trees by organising camps in different villages. We organise events in schools & villages where plantations are done by girls to make people aware. An initiative of Satya Foundation under the name of “SAKHI BAGHPAT” is very popular among women. Under this programme we provide free sanitary napkins to girls & healthcare supplements like iron, calcium, vitamin & general check-ups at the door step through our mobile medical van. The foundation also helps these women for forming SHGs for their self-reliance and entrepreneurship opportunities.

As part of this new initiative, we aim to in-still a culture of value based vedic education in rural schools by providing quality infrastructure and opportunities to worthy pupils. The Foundation through this endeavour our will take over the operations of rural schools that are in disarray and struggling to meet ends with an aim to make them focal points of basic school education.

an attempt towards rural resurgence

A public charitable trust registered in 2014, we are an organisation committed towards rural resurgence. Promoted, governed & patronised by eminent personalities with exceptional social credentials that have come together to work for a resurgent rural India. Satya Foundation understands the importance of rural India in making India a truly global powerhouse and further propelling India's growth story. We strive to create an environment where the Government, public undertakings, corporates, NGOs and society collaborate for a common cause, the greater public good.

SWACH GAON, KUSHAL GAON

The aim of this programme is to bring about an improvement in the general quality of life in the rural areas by promoting cleanliness, hygiene & eliminating open defecation. Through this initiative, we are working on issues of rural sanitation, hygiene, cleanliness etc. We help spread awareness on the importance of having toilets in each house along with providing financial support to low income households in constructing toilets in their houses. Conversion of agri bio-mass like cow dung & agri-waste into energy by installing bio-gas plants at individual & community level is one of the core activities of this initiative.

WATER CONSERVATION AND PLANTATION

Harvesting water and its conservation is important for bringing about improvements in production, productivity and for maintaining sustainability of agriculture along with providing provisions for safe drinking water. Satya Foundation organises demonstrations of the latest development in the field of water conservation & harvesting & helps to spread awareness about the importance of the same among people in rural areas. Cleaning & maintenance of water bodies in villages is the priority of this initiative.

RURAL TALENT SCHOLARSHIP

Satya Foundation aims that bright students from rural areas do not lose out on opportunities due to lack of information or economic wherewithal. Foundation will tie up with higher secondary education schools in rural areas to identify bright students from economically weaker sections of the society and help them in pursuing higher education or competitive examination irrespective of their caste, religion and gender etc.

E - KISAN MANDI

In the modern era when each person is connected to the internet through affordable wireless connectivity, a farmer in rural India still does not get the appropriate value for his/her crops. Through the online portal "E-Kisan Mandi", all farmers will be aware of the prices of various crops in the different areas of the country which will help them in selling their yield at a better price of their choice.

MOBILE RURAL HEALTH SUPPORT

India spends only ~ 4.2% of its GDP towards healthcare (compared to 18% in the USA). There are wide gaps between the rural and urban populations in its healthcare infrastructure which further worsen the problem. A staggering 68.84% of our population still lives in the rural areas and has limited access to hospitals and clinics. We provide mobile general healthcare medical facilities on the go to rural people. Health camps are organised at frequent intervals to spread awareness and support the needy.

MOBILE ANIMAL HEALTH SUPPORT

The animal health problems and facilities to cure it are worse in rural India as compared to human healthcare facilities. Going with the concept of mobile healthcare vehicles for people of villages, Satya Foundation has operated a vehicle with general veterinary medical facilities for animals. Animal health camps are organised to spread awareness about animal welfare, animal husbandry & associated medical facilities in association with reputed Govt. research centres like MORI, Institute of Animal Health research etc.
